

Why do young people think texts that end with periods are aggressive?

I thought that was just the correct way to end a sentence.

Well

There are a few reasons

But basically you don't need them to indicate that your message has ended

So to include them comes across as weirdly formal

Delivered